Subject: Guidelines for Engagement of Young Professionals/ Associates/ Consultants/ Senior Consultants in Directorate General of Trade Remedies (DGTR), Department of Commerce as Independent Consultants.

1. Background:

(i). The Directorate General of Trade Remedies (DGTR) is an attached office of the Department of Commerce (DoC) which undertakes trade remedy investigations before making its recommendations on imposition of duties to the Central Government (Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue). DGTR is the single national authority for conducting trade remedy investigations of all genre including anti-dumping, countervailing duties and safeguard measures. The functioning of DGTR is in the realm of quasi-judicial. DGTR provides a level playing field to the domestic industry against the adverse impact of unfair trade practices such as dumping and subsidies on imported goods from any exporting country through trade remedy measures under the framework of the WTO Agreements, the Customs Tariff Act, 1975 and relevant Rules such as Customs Tariff Rules, 1995 (AD Rules), Customs Tariff Rules, 1995 (CVD Rules) and other relevant laws and international agreements, in a transparent and time-bound manner. Besides, DGTR has a Trade Defence Wing (TDW) which operates as a nodal point to support Indian exporters facing trade remedy investigations initiated by any of the members of the WTO community. TDW participates in the trade remedy investigations initiated by trade remedy authorities of WTO members. Such participation is in the form of making submissions, consultations and attending oral hearings. TDW guides and supports the Indian exporters during such investigation process.

(ii). DGTR recommends imposition of duties to the Department of Revenue (DoR) which considers the same and notifies duties in the cases in which it considers fit. Any interested party can challenge such notifications of the DoR and as well the findings on trade remedial investigations of DGTR before various courts/appropriate tribunal in the country.

(iii). DGTR, in carrying out its core functions in trade remedy investigations and trade defence, engages professionals to assist the officers in investigations, costing and financial analysis, negotiations in trade agreements, policy formulations, court cases etc. Besides, Independent Consultants may also be assigned any other works by the officers of DGTR as per requirement.

(iv). Trade and commerce have an increasingly significant role in India's target of economic powerhouse. Export and import are expected to increase substantially in the coming years keeping in view that India is one of the largest retail markets while having the objective of growing to a developed nation by 2047.

(v). Keeping in view the expected growth in the volume of trade and commerce in India in the current decade and the next ones, it is imperative that the existing mechanisms of trade remedy measures and trade defence at the disposal of DGTR be strengthened and be more robust with engagement of high quality resources in the required areas. Therefore, DGTR proposes to engage
